On November 30, 2023, officers responded to a Boston Post Road business for a report of a breach of peace complaint. The victim stated that they had received numerous text messages from Cox. Cox came to the business looking for the victim. He approached them from behind, wrapping his arms around their neck, restricting them from moving. Cox then took their phone and attempted to flee. The victim approached Cox's vehicle to retrieve the phone, and Cox drove away, dragging the victim and causing injuries. He threw the phone out the window. The victim had an active protective order against Cox, which he had violated. Cox was apprehended a short time later. He was charged accordingly.
